

Activity Manager Update

Berkeley Lab is continuing implementation of Work Planning and Control (WPC) Activity Manager, our new work authorization system. Currently more than 800 activities are in development in the new system. At the end of this transition period, staff will be authorized to work under one or more “activities” in Activity Manager rather than under a Job Hazards Analysis (JHA) work authorization.

Implementation of WPC is being managed within each Division. Talk with your Supervisor or with your Division Safety Coordinator for more information on how WPC is being implemented, and what you may need to do.

Staff will receive emails from Activity Manager when there are actions for them to take in the system, such as accepting the conditions of a work activity. Staff will need to log into Activity Manager (wpc-am.lbl.gov) in those cases, review the notifications and take the appropriate action based on the notification. Feedback on the new system is welcome and can be sent through Activity Manager using the Support tab. There are also a number of brief, helpful training videos and resources at <http://wpc.lbl.gov/>
